

Please do not allow cell phones to be used on airplanes. I feel that it would be irresponsible to allow this, as there is no hard evidence to prove that cell phone use would not interfere with a plane's navigational system. Also, hijackers would have an easy way to communicate with each other as to the crew's whereabouts. Another caveat is that flight attendants would have to police cell phone usage. A flight is the only public place where one doesn't have to be subjected to screaming conversations by inconsiderate travelers. It is difficult as it is for flight attendants to get fliers to adhere to the current rules. Please don't make an already tense cabin atmosphere even worse by allowing cell phone usage on flights.
